Findaway Partners with Google for Global Audiobook Launch

February 06, 2018 (Solon, OH) – Findaway announces their partnership with Google for the launch of its new audiobook service on Google Play. Google Play audiobooks has launched in 45 countries and nine languages with several unique features, including:

- Listen with no commitment: On Google Play, readers can buy a single audiobook at an affordable price, with no commitments.
- Enjoy your audiobook with your Google Assistant: Just say “Ok Google, read my book” to listen to your favorite audiobook hands free with the Google Assistant on your phone or speaker, like Google Home.
- Weave reading into your day across multiple devices: Start your morning by listening to your audiobook with the Assistant on Google Home, and continue listening with the Google Play Books app on where you left off no matter what device you're using.

With the world’s largest distribution platform for audiobook titles, Findaway is driving growth in the digital publishing industry through strategic partnerships. Supporting Google’s entry into the audiobook market delivers Findaway’s goal of expanding the reach of audiobooks worldwide.

“We are proud to partner with Google and believe strongly in their ability to impact the global audiobook market with their reach and reputation for delivering the highest quality products,” said Ralph Lazaro, Chief Digital Officer of Findaway.

About Findaway
